Series Statement

Series Name: Census of State and Federal Adult Correctional Facilities Series

Series Information:
This series of studies contains a descriptive analysis of federal, state, and privately operated adult confinement and community-based correctional facilities nationwide. The census includes prisons, penitentiaries, and correctional facilities; boot camps; community corrections; prison farms; reception, diagnostic, and classification centers; road camps; forestry and conservation camps; youthful offender facilities (except in California); vocational training facilities; prison hospitals; and correctional drug and alcohol treatment facilities. The data can be used to produce statistics that describe facility characteristics, operations and security, programs, and the characteristics of the population held in state and federal correctional facilities. Facility characteristics include: facility functions, type, operator, security level of the facility, capacity, special housing units, and court orders/consent decrees. Operations and security of facilities include staffing, and physical and sexual assaults, infractions, and disturbances occurring within facilities. Programs include work assignments, education classes, and counseling or other special initiatives offered by prisons. Prisoner population statistics include number of prisoners being held by demographic characteristics, custody security level, and other special groups. The correctional facility is the unit of analysis. The Census of State and Federal Adult Correctional Facilities has typically been collected every 5-7 years.

Abstract

The 2019 Census of State and Federal Adult Correctional Facilities (CCF) was the ninth enumeration of state institutions and the sixth enumeration of federal institutions sponsored by the Bureau of Justice Statistics and its predecessors. Earlier censuses were completed in 1979 (ICPSR 7852), 1984 (ICPSR 8444), 1990 (ICPSR 9908), 1995 (ICPSR 6953), 2000 (ICPSR 4021), 2005 (ICPSR 24642), and 2012 (ICPSR 37294). The 2019 CCF consisted of two data collection instruments - one for confinement facilities and one for community-based facilities. For each facility, information was provided on facility operator; sex of prisoners authorized to be housed by facility; facility functions; percentage of prisoners authorized to leave the facility; one-day counts of prisoners by sex, race/ethnicity, special populations, and holding authority; number of walkaways occurring over a one-year period; and educational and other special programs offered to prisoners. Additional information was collected from confinement facilities, including physical security level; housing for special populations; capacity; court orders for specific conditions; one-day count of correctional staff by payroll status and sex; one-day count of security staff by sex and race/ethnicity; assaults and incidents caused by prisoners; number of escapes occurring over a one-year period; and work assignments available to prisoners. Late in the data collection to avoid complete nonresponse from facilities, BJS offered the option of providing critical data elements from the two data collection instruments. These elements included facility operator; sex of prisoners authorized to be housed by facility; facility functions; percentage of prisoners authorized to leave the facility; one-day counts of prisoners by sex, and holding authority. Physical security level was an additional critical data element for confinement facilities.

The census counted prisoners held in the facilities, a custody count. Some prisoners who are held in the custody of one jurisdiction may be under the authority of a different jurisdiction. The custody count is distinct from a count of prisoners under a correctional authority's jurisdiction, which includes all prisoners over whom a correctional authority exercises control, regardless of where the prisoner is housed. A jurisdictional count is more inclusive than a prison custody count and includes state and federal prisoners housed in local jails or other non-correctional facilities.

After the completion of the 2012 prison census and prior to July 2014, the prison facility universe was updated in preparation for sample selection for BJS's 2016 Survey of Prison Inmates (ICPSR 37692). In preparation for the launch of the 2019 CCF, additional work was conducted to further update the facility universe. Two efforts to enhance the universe--one for the community-based facilities and one for confinement facilities--were conducted. In both efforts, each state's department of corrections was provided an up-to-date list of facilities and asked to provide information to determine facility eligibility and to identify any facilities missing from the list. The BOP provided BJS with comprehensive lists of confinement and community-based correctional facilities.

The CCF universe included adult confinement and community-based correctional facilities operated by state governments, the federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP), or private entities under contract with state or BOP authorities. Facilities were included in the enumeration if they: (1) held prisoners primarily for state or BOP authorities, (2) were physically, functionally, and administratively separate from other facilities, and (3) were operational on June 30, 2019.

Facilities in combined jail and prison systems in Alaska, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Rhode Island, and Vermont were included. Contracted facilities operated by local correctional authorities and holding prisoners under state or BOP authorities were excluded as these facilities are deemed jails. (See Census of Jails, 2005-2019 - Statistical Tables (NCJ 255406, BJS, October 2021) for details on facilities operated by local correctional authorities.) Facilities operated by or for the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA), U.S. military, U.S. territory, and U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) facilities were not included in the 2019 CCF. Each state DOC, with the exception of Massachusetts, designated a central respondent to provide data for all of its state-operated facilities. Additionally, nine private contractors acted as central respondents for the facilities they operated. When possible, data were obtained from each individual correctional facility regardless of whether it shared budget or staff with another facility.

DEFINITION OF TERMS

Community-based facilities - Correctional facilities were classified as community-based if 50% or more of the residents were regularly permitted to leave, unaccompanied by facility staff, to work or study in the community. Community-based facilities included entities such as halfway houses, residential treatment centers, restitution centers, and prerelease centers.

Confinement facilities - Correctional facilities in which less than 50% of the inmates left the facility unaccompanied on a regular basis. Confinement facilities included prisons, prison farms, penitentiaries, correctional centers, work camps, and reformatories.

High security facilities - High security facilities were described as supermax, maximum, close, or high-security facilities and were characterized by a wall or double-fence perimeter, armed tower and/or armed patrols. Cell housing was isolated in one of two ways: Within a cell block so that a prisoner escaping from a cell was confined within the building; or by double security from the perimeter by bars, steel doors, or other hardware. All entry or exit was via trap gate or sally port.

Medium security facilities - Medium security facilities were characterized by a single or double fence perimeter with armed coverage by towers or patrols. Housing units were cells, rooms, or dormitories. Dormitories were living units designed or modified to accommodate 12 or more persons. All entry or exit was via trap gage or sally port.

Minimum security facilities - Minimum or low security facilities were characterized by a fence or "posted" perimeter. Cell housing units were rooms or dormitories. Normal entry and exit were under visual surveillance.

DATA REPORTING

The census counted prisoners held in the facilities, a custody count. Some inmates in custody in one jurisdiction may be held for a different jurisdiction. The custody count is distinct from a count of inmates under a correctional authority's jurisdiction, which includes all inmates over whom a correctional authority exercises control, regardless of where the inmate is housed. A jurisdictional count is more inclusive than a prison custody count and includes state and federal prisoners housed in local jails or other non-correctional facilities.

FACILITY INFORMATION

PLEASE PROVIDE FACILITY-IDENTIFYING INFORMATION IN THIS SPACE:

FACILITY ELIGIBILITY

The census includes all correctional facilities administered by state departments of corrections (DOC) or the Federal Bureau of Prisons (BOP) or operated under contract to hold inmates primarily for state correctional authorities or the BOP. These facilities are intended for adults but sometimes hold juveniles. For this data collection, each individual correctional facility or unit holding inmates under your jurisdiction is included, even if that facility shares budget or staff with other facilities.

The CJ-43A is intended to collect data on confinement facilities administered by the state DOC or the BOP or operated under contract to primarily house inmates for state correctional authorities or the BOP.

As you complete the survey, please provide a response to each question:

- If the answer to a question is "none" or "zero" ➡ Write "0" in the space provided.

- If an exact numeric answer is not available ➡ Provide estimates, and mark X in the box beside each number that is estimated.

- If an exact numeric answer is not available and you cannot provide an estimate ➡ Write "DK" (don't know) in the space provided.

- If you do not know the answer to a question ➡ Write "DK" (don't know) in the space provided.

- If the question does not apply to your facility or those you are reporting for ➡ Write "NA" (not applicable) in the space provided.
